CLUBS

Africana Club The purpose of the Africana club is to celebrate the African continent and its people. We achieve this by fostering an awareness of the peoples, histories, and cultures of Africa on the Bates campus. Furthermore, the club creates a platform on which all students in the Bates campus interested in Africa can interact with each other closely and also share their thoughts, and experiences with the Bates community at large. Similarly, Africana club brings together students who want to study abroad in Africa and those who have been or lived there. The club also develops an avenue for connecting its members with Bates alumni who have interests and/or connections with the African continent

AMANDLA! As a student organization, Amandla! celebrates and promotes the rich culture and history of various communities within the African diaspora. As part of our mission, we celebrate the melting pot of diverse backgrounds and experiences through intellectual discussion and artistic expression. Through organizing events and programs that raise cultural and political awareness of Black people on campus, Amandla! hopes to ignite racial tolerance and social change in our communities.

The Anime Club meets once a week on Sundays to watch episodes of Japanese anime series or movies. The meetings typically last for an hour to two hours and are a great way to learn about anime and take a study break. In the past, we've watched series such as Cowboy Bebop, Baccano, and FLCL, and movies by directors Hayao Miyazaki and Satoshi Kon, among others.

Arabic Club is dedicated to fostering a greater appreciation and understanding of Arabic language and culture within the Bates College community. Our calligraphy workshop, Middle East potluck dinners, and weekly Arabic Table dinner in Commons all showcase and share the beauty of Arabic language and the rich history of Arabic culture. Join us at our weekly Arabic Table is for if you are interested in joining the discussion of current cultural issues as well as practicing the customs and phrases shared at Club gatherings.

Art Bazaar offers artists, crafters, and hobbyists a space to display their work for sale at periodic exhibitions throughout the school year. The sales' profits are returned to the artists. This club is a great forum for entrepreneural artists,who are trying to garner some real-world experience.

Art Commons is a student run organization made up of people dedicated to student art. Our space in Chase Hall holds events like art parties, mold making workshops, wall painting sessions, and many other artistic pursuits throughout the year! Art Commons is a place for creative Batesies to come together in the name of student art!

Astronomy Club is a group of amateur astronomers who are excited to explain the mechanics of the sky. We live for those spontaneous stargazing sessions on the way to Commons or back from sports practice, from the end of Frye St. to the top of Mt. David. The club coordinates events ranging from rooftop telescope viewings and planetarium shows, to lecturers from visiting professors and space-related professionals.

Authors Guild is a committee of prose and poetry authors dedicated to the creation and promotion of a strong creative writing community. B.A.G serves as an organization that supports creative writing by building a community around it. We host readings and workshops for both poetry and prose writers where Bates students, faculty, and Lewiston residents are welcome to share and discuss their work. We hope to create a lasting and inspiring community of writers that facilitates a dialogue between the Bates community and Lewiston residents.

Badminton Club meets weekly on Sundays from 4-6 pm in the Gray Cage. The club offers an opportunity for Bates students to play badminton in a relaxed setting on campus. All equipment is provided and no experience is necessary. We'll teach you how to play or challenge you to a game. It's a great way to have fun on the weekend

BAHÁ'Í Association promotes the unity of mankind and the principles of the Bahá'í Faith such as the need for equal rights and privileges for men and women of all backgrounds, the harmony of science and religion, and the unfettered search after truth. The Association, open to all members of the College community and their families, aims to foster understanding, love, and fellowship in the Bates community through lectures and other public meetings, social gatherings, and service projects.

Ballroom Team is open to anyone who would like to learn how to ballroom dance. All levels of experience are welcome and no partner is necessary. The team practices rhythm (cha cha, rhumba, swing) and smooth (waltz, tango, foxtrot, Viennese waltz). The team practices two to three times a week, focusing on preparing students to compete at the inter-collegiate competitions. We attend about five competitions a year. We also go to ballroom social dances in Portland, bring in professional ballroom dancers for workshops, and host small social dances on campus. The team also sponsors a beginner class once a week for 1.5 hours, for which PE credit can be earned.

Bates College Television (BCTV) is back on the air! In the past five years, the club has collected a talented group of students interested in the many aspects of television and film production. This important communication venue and learning platform has been successfully providing the campus with Bates Cribs, the Puddle Jump, and several cutting edge stories such as the H1N1 Epidemic and the Gender Neutral Housing Policy. If there's a story, we'll be there!

Bridges for Peace was created to generate a solidarity movement between mainstream Muslims and other American groups through a series of events on campus, such as bringing high-profile speakers and organizing mass rallies. Regardless of religion, attaining peace is a universal goal. The name "Bridges for Peace" reflects the organization's desire and motivation to create a platform for peace and understanding between Muslims and other American groups.

Bates Buddies is a club that fosters the relationship between Bates and the Lewiston community. Pairs of Bates students volunteer weekly at a local elementary school during recess and lunch with a group of three to five children. Bates Buddies is a great way for students to get off campus and become engaged in the community in a fun way!

Bates Builds / Habitat for Humanity Our mission as a Bates College club and a chapter o Habitat for Humanity is to establish an avenue for Bates students to make a lasting, visible impact in the lives of those in need of decent, affordable shelter in the Lewiston/Auburn community and abroad. We build locally and abroad. Our goal is to allow Bates students many opportunities to Our Larger fundraisers include an international dodgeball tournament and a haunted house. The goal of these fundraisers is to provide awareness for our cause, have fun, and raise funds for build trips in the process.

Caribbean Student Association (CSA) The fundamental goals of the CSA is to celebrate Caribbean culture and to foster greater awareness of issues related to the Caribbean among members of the Bates College community. The aim of the CSA is to empower Caribbean students to create a sense of unity among themselves, but to also promote connections with their fellow students at Bates College and with the surrounding community.

Catholic Student Community is the Roman Catholic affiliated organization at Bates College. The group works alongside the College's Catholic Chaplain in organizing weekly Sunday Mass and other spiritual activities such as prayer/discussion meetings and dinner meetings. The group is also active in the Lewiston community, volunteering with local churches and charitable organizations.

The Cats and Cubs program is a student-run organization affiliated with Big Brothers Big Sisters that focuses on one on one mentoring. Bates students host youth of the community on campus in a small group, usually totaling twenty persons, and engage in a variety of activities, such as swimming, sledding, arts and crafts, exploring the campus and other creative ideas proposed by "bigs" or their "littles." Cats and Cubs traditionally meets every other Sunday afternoon.

Chase Hall Committee is the primary, student run, programming board on campus. Working with a traditionally large budget, the club plans, publicizes, and runs a variety of events over the course of the year and into Short Term. Events usually include a major music concert, a comedy series, the Halloween and 80s Dances, Big Prize BINGO, Drop Everything and Play aka DEAP (a free music and activities event during short term), the coordination of the nation's 2nd oldest Winter Carnival, and other various fun, diverse acts. This is a great way to interact with the student body, learn event planning and marketing skills as well as get your voice heard in the booking of campus entertainment.

Chess Club is a club for chess enthusiasts, casual players, and beginners alike. Meeting weekly in Chase Hall, Chess Club provides an atmosphere for everything from friendly games to more advanced studying of theory. Everyone is welcome at Chess Club!

Bates Christian Fellowship is a large and diverse family of students. We strive to grow in love for God and God's people of every ethnicity and culture, and to come to a deeper understanding of the Scriptures and of God's purposes in the world. BCF is associated with InterVarsity Christian Fellowship.

Bates Christian Science Organization is a group dedicated to supporting and pro-actively encouraging a spiritually uplifted campus and community. We seek to serve as a spiritual resource for all and create a comfortable forum for dialogue on spirituality and current issues through meetings and lectures. Our weekly meetings include readings and the sharing of experiences and ideas about how the challenges of campus life and beyond can be met through prayer and spirituality.

Club Med (Pre-Health Sciences Society) We're a group for anyone interested in a career in healthcare including medicine, dentistry, nursing, public health, etc. and we work to get students together and let them know about all the opportunities out there in the field. For example we've had alumni come to talk about their schooling and careers after college as well as discussions with professionals from the community on subjects such as the health care opportunities available in Maine.

The Competitive Eating Club, formed in 2011, is the 2nd collegiate competitive eating club in the country and is known on campus as the FatCats. The club hosts and attends various eating competitions as well as challenges throughout the Northeast.

Competitive Ski Club Come join the fastest club on campus – the Competitive Ski Team! Founded in 2005 as an alternative to the D-1 racing team on campus, this club is open to both Alpine and Nordic racers of all levels and all experience, as long as you want to go fast! We offer dry-land training and on-snow instruction throughout the year. We also spend the winter racing against other great colleges in New England.

Cricket Club is more than a sport, its a belief, its a religion! The 2nd most popular sport in the world, cricket is gaining popularity and interest fast at Bates. Using similar techniques as baseball, it is hugely popular in Pakistan, India, Srilanka, the UK and Australia. Over the last decade, cricket has witnessed a dramatic gain in popularity in the US, Canada, UAE, Afghanistan, Ireland, Kenya and Malysia. Come learn about this growing global sport followed passionately by millions.

The Crosstones is Bates' oldest co-ed a cappella group. The Crosstones have always been known for their down-to-earth nature, humor, and energy, and have been performing everything from pop to classic rock both internationally and locally for 16 years. Previous tours have taken them around New England, over to the West Coast, and even all the way up to Canada!

Cycling Club Heart Rate. Lactate Threshold. Power-to-weight ratio. These are all important considerations in the sport of bike racing...but we don't care about them at all!! The Bates College Cycling Team is a laid-back bunch of guys and girls dedicated to racing their bikes. We train year-around and have fun. We race mountain bikes in the fall and road bikes in the spring.

The Bates Dance Club aims to connect more Bates students, faculty, staff, and members of the Lewiston-Auburn community with the world of dance. Specifically, we want members of the Bates community to experience styles of dance not offered through the college. We take advantage of performances going on in Lewiston, Portland, and Boston; and invite anyone interested to contribute to a student run/choreographed show put on during short term.

The Deansman are a 12-14 voice, all-male a cappella group that has been entertaining the college community and beyond since 1957. Our repertoire is nothing short of dynamic, ranging from the traditional to the new. In our signature tuxedos, we happily sing at local charity events, as well as at other colleges and high schools. In the past, the Deansmen have performed for the Boston Celtics, George Bush, Sr., and Rockapella as well as on both Maine and Icelandic television. The group is known for maintaining a high musical quality while also delivering a powerful, entertaining, and occasionally hilarious performance.

Brooks Quimby Debate Council Always among the top debating schools in the nation, Bates is currently one of the top 15 teams in the world. In past years, we have hosted the North Americans Championships, featuring the top debaters from Canada and the U.S, along with other prestigious events. Debate is a great way to develop your mind, compete successfully against the top schools in the country, travel around the country and the world, and have a lot of fun.

Bates Democrats are concerned students and citizens who tend to vote for Democrats, and are politically active and aware. We sponsor speakers, work on election campaigns, host forums and debates on campus, and engage in discussions on hot political topics.

Der Deutsche Kulb (German Club) meets frequently and celebrates the exciting cultures of Germany and other German speaking nations. We host film nights, game nights, seasonal and holiday parties, attend German Table, and inform our members of German departmental events.

Dharma Society is an on campus Buddhism group that caters to meditation practices and visits to local monasteries and meditation centers. The Dharma club is a non- religious group and is open to people of all faiths, creeds, backgrounds, etc.

Discordians If it's creative, wacky, or just downright embarrassing, we're game. We host root-beer keggers, the fall leaf-jump, and of course, Zombies vs. Humans.

DJ-Society is the larger society of DJs on Bates campus. In addition, providing music for every, and any scene on campus from academic to social ventures. We are a grassroots organization with a focus on serving students. This is a great opportunity for new or experienced DJs and event planners to contribute to, and be the faces behind Bates' largest and most memorable events.

Dynasty Step Team is a multi-cultural, co-ed group of steppers. We welcome both beginners and more experienced steppers. In addition to teaching members how to step, we offer a variety of performance opportunities for those who are interested. The Bates Step Club is a new club, and we are growing fast.

Bates Emergency Medical Service (EMS) is a Maine licensed EMS service that provides emergency care to the Bates College community. Bates EMT's volunteer their time to be on call and are ready to respond to any campus emergency 24 hours a day, 7 days a week whenever school is in session.

Energy Action Movement (BEAM) BEAM is a community of students dedicated to taking direct action to address the issue of climate change and energy stability. As a part of the international youth climate movement, we regularly partake in on-campus, nation-wide, and global campaigns to promote progressive climate legislation, climate justice, the development of renewable energy sources and the growth of green jobs. There is no time to wait for someone else to solve this problem – the responsibility is ours and we are rising to the challenge!

The Environmental Coalition focuses on improving environmental awareness and responsibility at Bates, in Lewiston-Auburn, and on a national scale. We work towards these goals with many different approaches, including awareness campaigns of environmental issues and campaigning for changes to local or regional environmental policy.

The Bates Equestrian Team competes in the Intercollegiate Horse Show Association (IHSA) in Zone 1 Region 2. We have two seasons, fall and spring, with about four horse shows a season.

Fencing Club began a few years ago as a small club to teach the rudiments of fencing. We have grown to teach beginning fencing, group lessons in all three weapons, free fencing for all levels, and to field competitive teams against collegiate clubs and varsity teams.

Filmboard Every weekend the Filmboard presents a newly released, pre-dvd feature film to the Bates Community. Special programming includes independent films, drive-in movies and movie poster raffles.

The Bates Fishing Club was established in 1999 for fishermen and fisherwomen in hopes of establishing a network of campus wide anglers. The BFC has equipment and supplies freely available for all members and those interested in joining the world of fishing. We have equipment that range from fly rods for Land Locked Salmon and Brook Trout, spinning rods, surf casting rods for Striped Bass, and Ice fishing equipment.

The Freewill Folk Society promotes folk culture on campus through music and dance. Students and community members come to Bates once a month for a contradance, which is a deformalized version of the dance you've seen in any Jane-Austen-novel-made-film. We usually dance to traditional music (fiddles, guitars, mandolins), but we also introduce other forms of music for our techno contra, which is a hybrid between traditional dance and modern music. The Freewill Folk Society also hosts the annual Community Folk Festival, a weekend of concerts, contradances, and workshops with attendees from throughout Maine and New England.

Bates Gospelaires "Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands." (Psalms 100:1) Our mission is to sing praises unto the Lord and fully rejoice in it. We feel that our mission will bring hope, positivity, respect, optimism and, most importantly, love for our fellow brothers & sisters through the songs and its' messages; not only within the Bates college community, but throughout the greater Maine community and beyond. ONE GOAL, ONE PASSION, ONE VOICE...Bates Gospel Choir!

Helicase is the student biology club which provides support, unity, and inspiration for the exploration of biology both inside and outside of the classroom. We enhance communication between students and the department by functioning as an official liaison and sponsoring several student-faculty mixers throughout the year. Through fieldtrips and other fun activities we expose students to the resources that surround them in the Bates and greater Maine community, and hope to foster an appreciation of biology.

Hillel is an entirely student-run club designed for Jewish students and others interested in Judaism. Hillel offers weekly Shabbat dinners in the Intercultural House, casual Friday evening services, and celebrates all major Jewish holidays. All are welcome to attend Hillel events and programs.

Hockey Club (M &W) Both teams are members of the American Collegiate Hockey Association (ACHA), which is the largest and most competitive club hockey organization in the nation and offers an annual national tournament for top qualifying teams. The clubs play on campus at Underhill Arena and travel throughout the northeast competing against other colleges and universities within the league and participate in regional playoffs.

International Club provides the Bates community with an opportunity to take part in a large variety of activities that aim to promote and encourage cross-cultural awareness and understanding. Such activities include the annual International Dinner (featuring foods from around the world), trips during the mid-semester breaks, several International parties, and our International Fair and Festival when students represent their countries in a variety of ways, ranging from fashion, to music, to dancing, to pictures, movies, and souvenirs. We also serve to support the International students in their transition process from one part of the world to another.

Investment Club manages a real ~$100,000 portfolio on behalf of the college, in support of student financial aid. The club's portfolio outperformed the major stock indexes by over 25% in 2008! Weekly meetings are held to teach the basics of investment analysis, discuss investment opportunities and vote on new investments, and learn about the financial markets in general.

J Street U consists of members of the Bates College Community who stand for and are working towards peace, security and social justice in Israel, the future state of Palestine and across the Middle East As supporters of Israel, we are firmly committed to protecting the future of the state as a Jewish democratic homeland. We believe the fates of a secure Israel and a viable Palestinian state are intertwined. The peace and security of both peoples is achievable only through a negotiated, two-state solution.

Knit Wits is an organization which aims to give Bates Students a weekly time and space to knit, or learn to knit. We have a lot of fun as a club doing various activities. We also knit for the purpose of donating to a charitable organization!

Lacrosse (M) The Bates Men's Club Lacrosse team has greatly increased in size and popularity since its first season in 2006.

.atinos Unidos is organized as a threshold of diversity. The club seeks to create opportunities for ıe Latino students of Bates College and facilitates a place to embrace their culture while continuing to arn about the new environment around them. Latinos Unidos is active both on the Lewiston and national vel through community service.

Manic Optomists What do you get when you put 13 guys who love to sing alone with a piano? ou'll have to see for yourself to find out, but we're pretty sure you'll be manically optimistic about it! The lanic Optimists are Bates' newest all-male a cappella group, performing a wide variety of current hits and assic favorites.

Masterpiece Theater Club is devoted to PBS Masterpiece Theatre programming, which airs BC period dramas on American television. This is a club where students can come see their favorite ictorian novel or Shakespearean play brought to life. The Masterpiece Theatre Club presents the pportunity to take a break in the workday, while at the same time stimulating the mind by broadening xposure to classic works of literature, their themes, and their historical context through film.

Merimanders are the oldest (and only) all-female a cappella group at Bates College. In addition to nging at various Bates events and holding our own concerts each semester, we sometimes get together ith groups from other schools by either inviting them to sing with us or going to sing with them. We love to avel to different places in the Maine/New England community to sing! We sing at restaurants, fundraisers, arties, and many other awesome venues.

Mock Trial Team Our four year old team is both competitive, and a lot of fun. We spend a few ıonths preparing a trial, including writing opening and closing statements, and direct and cross-xaminations. We annually attend the regional competitive tournament, where we compete against other ew England colleges and universities.

Model UN is an academic simulation of the United Nations that aims to educate participants about ivics, effective communication, globalization and multilateral diplomacy. In Model UN, students take on oles as diplomats and participate in a simulated session of an intergovernmental organization (IGO). 'articipants research a country, take on roles as diplomats, investigate international issues, debate, eliberate, consult, and then develop solutions to world problems.

Mushahada Association is an association of the Muslim students and students interested in the slamic faith at Bates. Mushahada is an Arabic word and means vision. The club aims at providing ppropriate space for religious observances, and increasing awareness of Islam as a religion on the college ampus through organizing a diverse range of activities, which also act as a platform for interaction etween Muslim students on the campus and the college community as a whole.

The Bates Musician's Union exists to provide aspiring musicians and bands at Bates with the pace and equipment they need to practice and perform their material. The club supports campus bands ith a rehearsal space, practice equipment, and live sound equipment for shows.

Northfield is a non-audition, non-traditional acapella group that welcomes all singers on campus and draws from a variety of music traditions, including shape note singing, Appalachian folk music, and cultural music from around the world. Northfield was founded as a singing group open to all, meant to provide an opportunity for students to learn more about cultural music.

OUTfront serves the entire Bates College community by sounding out fundamental issues of sexuality and gender. As both a student-run support group and a political organization, we facilitate education and discussion of gender and sexuality issues while working to change intolerant and discriminating attitudes. OUTfront cooperates with other student organizations toward the greater goal of social justice for all within, and beyond, the College.

The Bates Outing Club was founded in 1920 and is among the oldest collegiate outing clubs in the country and the first at a private college to include both men and women from the beginning. Every member of the Bates College community is technically a member of the club. The organization offers year-round trips throughout New England for hiking, climbing, skiing, canoeing, surfing, and kayaking and many more. Every year the club hosts activities including two Clambakes, Winter Carnival and a hike up Katahdin, each of which remain popular campus-wide events.

Philosophy Forum is a meeting place for students interested in questioning knowledge. Our purpose is to build ideas through mind opening discussion and disagreement. In contrast with the teacher-student relationship, where knowledge is transmitted from teacher to student, our goal is to expand understanding of philosophical issues through mutual participation.

The Photo Club provides a forum for sharing work, ideas, and opinions about photography through critique and discussion. We provide access and tutorials for the club darkroom where students can develop and print black and white film, and we also provide discounted film. The Photo Club also publishes a semesterly photo publication, Blonde Magazine.

The Physics Society purpose is to advance and spread knowledge of physics to interested members of the Bates community. We sponsor seminars, video viewings covering all areas of physics, science related trips, and a weekly physics lunch (an informal gathering of physics students, professors, and guest lecturers).

Refugee Volunteers is a student- and refugee-led club committed to building positive relationships between Bates College students and Maine refugees and improving refugees' access to needed services. Our goal is to provide services to refugees, broaden students' and refugees' perspectives on the diverse cultures around them, and build positive relationships between Bates and the Lewiston community.

Bates College Republicans a chapter of the Maine College Republicans and the College Republican National Committee (CRNC), is a political organization that promotes conservative values on the Bates campus and helps elect Republican candidates at the local, state and national levels of government. Club members host prominent speakers, engage in grassroots activism on behalf of Republican candidates, sponsor school-wide debates, and generally heighten political awareness at Bates.

The Robinson Players is the one and only Bates College student theater organization. We produce between six and ten shows a year including a one-acts festivals, a moving production centered around the theme of human rights, a musical, and a show we call "Stages for All Ages. Nothing's off limits!

Roots & Shoots an international program of the Jane Goodall Institute, is a youth-led organization dedicated to community volunteerism and inspiring positive changes in people, animals, and the natural environment. Roots & Shoots members identify environmental problems on the Bates campus and in Lewiston/Auburn and work together on projects to create a more peaceful and healthy environment.

Rugby Club (M) competes in the fall, playing rivals Colby, Bowdoin, Maine-Farmington in the New England Rugby Football Union's (NERFU) DIII North–Maine division. Rugby is an intense game requiring you to push your body and your mind to the limit. The rush of playing rugby is unlike any other you will have ever experienced.

Rugby Club (W) The Women's Rugby Team is a competitive DIII team that engages in a competitive fall season as well as an unofficial spring season. The team was founded in the 1970s and has been a tough competitor in leagues since then.

Sailing Club is a student-run and organized club sport. We maintain 12 FJs and practice out of Taylor Pond Yacht Club in Auburn, which is approximately 10 minutes from campus. The team also competes in intercollegiate races throughout New England on the weekends as part of the New England Intercollegiate Sailing Association (NEISA).

Salaam Namaste is an organization seeking to promote awareness of South Asian culture at Bates College. With its vibrant culture, bubbling spirit and teeming knowledge, South Asia is a growing attraction in the world and has proven to be of much interest to students from America and the other countries represented at Bates.

Sangai Asia "Sangai" means "togetherness" in Nepalese, which is a founding purpose of this club. Sangai Asia was created to promote Asian and Asian-American awareness, identity, and fellowship on the Bates campus as well as in the greater community. Sangai Asia has held and cosponsored events such as dinners, cooking classes, film series, annual fireworks displays, and the annual Asian Performance Night.

SEED Magazine is a provocative, inspiring, and visually stimulating student run publication that features prose, poetry, photography, painting, and drawing by Bates students. Distributed once a semester SEED works to expose the artistic and eclectic talents of the Bates College student body.

Shred Club seeks to promote,expand, and assist the skateboarding on Bates Campus and within the community. A great way to explore the many shredable corners of Maine, Shred Club is an all around gooc investment of your time. All forms of shredding are encouraged, from scootering to street luge.

The Bates Men's Club Soccer team provides an opportunity for members of the Bates College community across a wide array of skill levels to compete against other schools.

Stage Combat Club is a student-run organization interested in performing combat in a safe and historically accurate way for the stage. Such techniques include unarmed combat, sword and buckler work, stave fighting and much, much more. We come together and use these techniques to create a safe, yet realistic looking fight scene and perform them on occasion for the community.

Strange Bedfellows is the one and only improvisational comedy group at Bates. They perform both short-form as well as long-form improv and continually explore and experiment with different types of long-form improv structures such as the Harold, the Ascat, and the BAT, a show that is performed entirely in the dark! The main goal of The Strange Bedfellows is to bring laughter to the Bates community and the surrounding areas of Lewiston and Auburn using the increasingly popular art form of improvisational comedy as a tool and a medium.

The Bates Student has been the College's entirely student-run newspaper since 1873. We publis once a week while school is in session. Sections include news and features, forum, sports and arts & living

Bates Student Government The Representative Assembly is Bates' student government. The R.A. is both a forum for students to voice opinions on important campus issues and a liaison between the student body and the administration. The R.A. selects students to serve on student-faculty committees and allocates funds to Bates' recognized student organizations, while also financially supporting numerous activities and initiatives on campus through both the allocations process and its co-sponsorship fund.

Students for Peace and Justice in Palestine: The main goal of SPJP is to disseminate information about the Palestinian-Israeli conflict. We are also interested in raising awareness c Middle Eastern issues more generally, such as the Arab Spring and its underlying political roots. In recent years, we have brought several scholars, a poet, an activist, a theatre company, and a local filmmaker whc was a member of the infamous Gaza flotilla raid of 2010.

Taiko Club Taiko are stick percussion instruments originated from Japan. Bates Taiko Club meets once a week for official Taiko drumming lesson from instructor and additional meetings for practice purposes among members. In the past, Taiko Club has performed in Sangai Asian Night, International Clul Coffee House and CBB Japan Fair. We also organized cultural activities for members such as watching Taiko performances in Boston.

Take Note is a dashing co-ed a cappella group founded in 2008. Our repertoire consists of an eclectic blend of classics and current hits, ranging from pop to folk to rap. We perform at all of the major concerts on campus as well as around the community.

Triathlon Club Who doesn't enjoy swimming, biking, or running? Never heard of or done a triathlon? Come check this club out! We are focused on bringing those who are interested, but necessarily experienced, in triathlons of any distance together to train hard and have lots of fun.

Ultimate Frisbee Team the legendary Orange Whip (Men's) and Cold Front (Women's) are two club teams committed to the sport and spirit of Ultimate. We are a team that plays with intensity while always managing to have a great time. In the fall season we play as many tournaments as we can, traveling from Maine as far as Western Massachusetts and Rhode Island. In the winter, we keep it real with conditioning, wintery tourneys and a 4 v. 4 league. Spring makes way for men's and women's USA Conference Championships and Regionals.

The Volleyball Club is a competitive team that competes against schools from all around New England. We compete in the New England College Volleyball League. We are a club sport that is open to anyone who is willing to play. We compete against such schools as Bowdoin, Colby, University of Maine, Brown, Williams and many others.

Water Polo Club (M) is a club here at Bates that has seen great success in the many years it has been around. From back to the mid to late 90s when the club was winning the division title, to present day where the club has continued to play competitively in one of the fastest growing regions of water polo on the east coast. As our motto says, "There may not be any horses in the pool, but there are plenty of stallions."

Water Polo Club (W) Women's Waterpolo is an athletic club that is open to everyone! No experience needed...If you can swim, you can play...Come get wet!!!

The Women of Color Club celebrates the rich and diverse experiences of women of color, as well as confronts issues of racism, sexism, classism, heterosexism, and other forms of prejudice that affect women of color in a comfortable and safe setting.

Women's Advocacy Group The group is intended to serve as a safe and comfortable space for women as well as students of other genders on campus to: exchange ideas, meet with peers and professors outside of an academic setting, encourage dialogue between Batesies on subjects related to gender, listen to guest speakers, organize programming, and facilitate action to raise campus awareness of and around gender issues.

WRBC is Bates' own fully licensed radio station broadcasting since 1958 at 91.5 FM. We represent one of Bates' most eclectic clubs, and feature live radio programming of all genres and styles 24 hours a day, 365 day of the year. We also host concerts and events throughout the school year, including our famed Trivia Night. Listen online around the world at www.wrbcradio.com.

The Yoga Kula is an organization that hosts free yoga classes open to all Bates students, faculty, and staff. Kula means "community" in Sanskrit, which reflects the organization's intention to promote the practice of yoga and foster community around it. It hosts weekly classes in various yoga styles, including Vinyasa, Hatha, and Kripalu.

Bates

Commencement 2012 Remarks
Bonnie L. Bassler
Recipient of the Honorary Degree
Doctor of Science

Congratulations to the Bates Class of 2012. What an honor for me to stand here. Gazing out at you, I feel as if I'm seeing the future. And, it looks exciting. A huge congratulations to all of you on this day that celebrates your wonderful achievements.

Now, enough about you, let's please talk about me [laughter].

Do any of you have any idea what it is like to be me? Do you see who I am sitting next to? In your mind, can change places with me and imagine what this feels like to be me.

Here is what being me is about today:

I knew coming into this that the honorary degree recipients will speak in alphabetical order and that I have the bad luck of having a last name beginning with B.

Oh, and I well know that I have been chosen for this honor because I'm "the academic." I represent excellence in scholarship. I also know that the academic is the person at these grand events that no one has ever heard of [laughter].

Even worse, I know that beyond being an academic, I'm a "scientist." The audience is dreading my talk because they assume they will be tortured about some esoteric subject that has no relevance to life.

If only the academic scientist whose last name starts with B would get it over with, Robert De Niro and Gwen Ifill could give their talks [[laughter], and you, the graduates, your parents, your families and the faculty could get to what they've been waiting for.

Would any of you trade places with me? Does any of you want to me be?

No! As you look forward in your lives, you want to be them [laughter].

I did too.

But now, I want to be me.

So who am I, and why is it so good to be me. What can a scientist say that is useful to you on this glorious day where you pass from being a student to being "an adult."

Your job for the past 22 or so years has been to take in knowledge and to learn. That's it. You started with keeping eye contact, then mimicking your parents' speech, then crawling, walking and feeding yourself. You probably learned to ride a bike and later to drive a car. You have been forced to learn some manners and to read and write and do math. Hopefully, in these past four years, you have learned to be clever and to make sound judgments.

You may have augmented those abilities by practicing athletics or you learned a musical instrument. You've had one job in your entire life and that was to let, typically older people, dump stuff into you. Your only responsibility was to try to retain some of it and, hopefully, begin to figure out which sliver of all that stuff is remotely interesting to you so you can make "a career choice" once you get out of here.

Somehow, inevitably, over the course of this day you are officially converted from the takers into the makers and the givers of knowledge. You are now responsible for keeping our society prosperous. It is now your job to keep this country at peace. You are now the stewards of this fragile planet and it's your job is to sustain it. Oh, and by the way, while you are being good stewards of the environment, you also have to simultaneously think up ways to feed and house nine billion people. It is your job to help them all have a chance at a long and healthy and educated life, just as you expect to have.

When I was sitting where you are sitting today — at UC Davis — the gulf between my chair and this podium was infinite. For sure, there was some unmemorable academic spouting about taking on world challenges. Honestly, I don't have a clue who that was. But I do remember thinking, "What a bunch of baloney." That speech was to rally the special people among the graduates, the smart people, the going-somewhere people, the together people, the confident people. Not me. That speech was not for the regular graduates like me. His speech was for the ones of us who would grow up to be somebody, the ones who knew where they were going. Bottom line: The speech was for the Robert De Niros and the Gwen Ifills of the UC–Davis Class of 1984.

And the Bonnie Basslers.

And you.

When I was sitting where you're sitting, I had been living for 22 years with a very very loud internal critic, telling me, "You don't measure up." I knew that somehow other people were smart or pretty or athletic or gifted or talented or remarkable. But I was normal.

Now look at me: I'm on the stage with Gwen Ifill and Robert De Niro [laughter]! And do you want to know why? It is because I've done something. You heard what Dean Smith said about me. You want to know what else? I never saw it coming, I never planned this. I did not understand that I was a Gwen Ifill, I was a Robert De Niro. I was you in the UC–Davis Class of 1984.

I was terrified.

I never imagined I would be this happy, this fulfilled, this excited! My life is a blast. I get to play games and do puzzles all day every day. I get to live a life of curiosity and discovery. I spend my time thinking about things that no one has ever thought about before. Plus, I influence policy makers and thought leaders. I decide where your tax money is going to go to fund science and technology of the future. I go to the White House on a regular basis.

So how do you go from where you're sitting to where I'm standing? You do it by finding, or better yet, by making your own adventure. It can be science, it can be acting, it can be journalism. It can be anything, so long as you love it — even if it is challenging or scary or sometimes disappointing. You get here by "doing it." You do it by paying attention. You do it by thinking. You do it by jumping in and trying your best. You do it by not saying no because you are scared that you might fail.

I have no training as a teacher, as a lab head, as a policy maker, or as a commencement speaker. All I really know how to do is to grow bacteria. During every transition in my life, I have been scared, and I have thought, "I can't do it." But there is a big difference between not wanting to do something and being afraid to do something. When I don't want to do something, I say, "No, thank you." When I consider not doing something because I'm scared that I could fail, I say yes.

Let's go back to being me today. I didn't want to give this speech because I don't want to fail. I did not want to give the one speech that no one wants to hear. I am intimidated by Gwen Ifill and Robert De Niro. I am intimidated by you. But I'm here. I'm here because this is part of the adventure that Bonnie Bassler is making for herself. What a blast to be on this stage. Even if I do fail, I won't die from this. The worst thing that can happen if I give a crummy speech is that everyone will be polite to me today, they'll whisper behind my back about how awful it was, and then completely forget about me.

But, I will have given this speech. I will have tried to tell you something about my life. Perhaps, if I give a good speech, it will be meaningful because some of you have similar feelings. But for me, I will have gone on a new adventure. I will have done something that I never saw coming. Giving this speech will enable me to say yes to something in the future that will be even scarier.

If I had one thing I could do over again, I would have learned to say yes in the face of fear much sooner in my life. I hope this talk can inspire you to do that. All the nice things Dean Smith said about me happened after I started saying yes in the face of fear, after I stopped being a bystander.

You won't get up to this podium if you don't take a risk. Now, I'm not telling you to be an idiot. You can read and write and do math and you have been educated by Bates to be a critical thinker and to have good judgment. Use all of that for something you love and start doing that soon. You know that old saying, "Just say no"? I say, "Just say yes." Make an adventure for yourself. You'll have a ball.

Congratulations.

Commencement 2012 Remarks
Robert De Niro
Recipient of the Honorary Degree
Doctor of Fine Arts

I'm sure you're thinking: Wouldn't it have been cool if Michael Chu were friends with Will Ferrell instead of De Niro?

President Cable, Bates trustees, Gwen Ifill, Bonnie Bassler, I am honored to share the podium with you. Parents and families, guests and you, the Bates College graduating Class of 2012, thank you for including me on this momentous occasion.

I have one message for you, Class of 2012. Stay in school [laughter]. I know you're here to graduate, I know you think your work is done, but hang on just a minute. It's tough out there. The world is a scary place. Stay in school [laughter].

You're not alone. Surveys show that many undergraduates are staying for four and a half to six years. Really! Nothing gets better after this [laughter]. So now, say it with me [graduates say, "Stay in school!"].

It won't be easy; the best things seldom are. I know you've already rented the cap and gown, gotten an internship, broken up with your girlfriends and boyfriends, and started sleeping with new ones [laughter], had your last drink at the Goose [cheers], deposited the early graduation gifts. But listen to me: Yes, stay in school.

It doesn't matter how you do it. Go for a master's degree; that always works. If that's not too much of a stretch, bribe a professor to lower your grades so you don't have enough credits to graduate [laughter]. Finance your extra schooling by working part time, helping Brad at the omelet station or assisting Vegan Mike. Or go on the American plan: borrow more money. Forget about what the Republicans want to do with your student loan interest rate! Get your parents to kick in too. It should be worth it to them just to keep you from moving back into your old room. That was your plan, wasn't it?

I know not all of you will be able to do it; some of you will have to go out into the world, some of you will have to leave school. I know that pain of leaving school. For me it happened in the middle of high school. In many ways, leaving school when I did was an advantage. I saved nearly $6,000 by not having to pay tuition and expenses for four years of education. I feel a little foolish because if I had waited until now not to go to college, I could have save around a quarter of a million [laughter], just by not going to Bates [laughter].

But, I was in a hurry and, you know, it worked out just fine. I saved the money and I got the degree [laughter]. I'm a doctor of fine arts. Thank you Bates College.

It's too late to save the tuition, but it's not too late to save yourselves, and with all due respect to Gwen Ifill and Bonnie Bassler, I think this is the most important piece of advice you will hear today: Become a movie star [laughter].

Now, you may be tempted by other careers, other interests, other commitments. There may be pressure on you to change the world, but you must find the strength to resist. When I started, I wasn't a movie star, and it sucked [laughter]. The moment I became a movie star, things started to get better [laughter]. If you're, say, a professor, or a distinguished broadcaster or a groundbreaking biologist, you have to ground it out every day — though I heard differently today from Bonnie.

When you're a movie star, you can coast. For example, who remembers the last really good successful picture I made [laughter]? C'mon, anyone? It doesn't matter. I'm still getting the big bucks that Will Ferrell wishes he were getting.

I want you to know under this movie star exterior is a real person. Just like you. Naw, I really didn't mean that [laughter]. That was acting. You see, I still got it.

But I am deeply honored to be here this morning. I am flattered to be considered in the same company with Gwen Ifill and Bonnie Bassler. I am complimented to be in a group of so many outstanding students educators and alumni. I am appreciative of this great honor, and it is truly a great honor but perhaps giving it to me cheapens it a little.

I think of what my mother would have thought. My mother would be so proud to see her son, who never graduated from high school, standing up here today receiving this honorary doctorate of fine arts (I imagine she would've been more proud had it been Harvard, but anyway [laughter]).

But, had she learned, as I have, the history of Bates, she would've been moved by my association with this great institution Bates has been a pioneer in equality and equal opportunity; that's quite a legacy. It's also a responsibility; you must follow in the footsteps of so many of your distinguished alumni and bring your Bates values out into the world. I know you will do your alma mater proud.

Bates College's concern for minorities is inspiring, and now Bates is at the forefront of serving the most abused minority of all, the 1 percent who can actually afford to send their kids here [laughter].

I can practically hear some of you thinking, "Mr. De Niro" — no, Dr. De Niro — "what if being a movie star isn't for right for me?" OK, you can be a rebel, but you know you're only hurting yourself.

But don't worry, Dr. De Niro has wisdom for you:

As you face the world, there is nothing more important than.....blah blah blah blah blah. [laughter]. And this, above all, blah blah blah blah. And blah blah blah....And, blah.

[laughter and cheers].

Today is one of your six most important days at Bates College. Your graduation day. Then there was your first day of classes, remember. And in between, those four Newman Days [laughter]. You came here, most of you, because of your values, including appreciating the value of an exceptional liberal arts education. So this isn't an occasion for me to suggest what you should do, or to urge you on a path you have already chosen. This isn't a day for advice; this is a day for pats on the back.

And what can I tell you. I can tell you what I tell my own children. Three of my sons are here with me today. They're the ones praying I won't do anything to embarrass them. That is, anything more than what I'm doing right now. I'll tell you what I tell them; if it's any use, fine, if not, find them after the ceremony and just say, "Dudes, sorry your dad is such a dick."

I tell them these tried and true lessons I've learned, or tried to convince them I've learned. Keep an open mind. Welcome new experiences and new ideas. Don't be afraid to try things. Don't be afraid to fail. I always say, "If you don't go, you never know."

Trying to improve our society isn't a cliché; it's a worthy goal. Thinking about and actually doing the right thing is a cliché, but so what? It's also the worthiest of goals.

When a director gives you a line reading that doesn't feel right for your character, nod and agree with him or her, then do it the way you know your character would do it. If you're an actor, always be true to your character; if you're not an actor, have character, and always be true to yourself [applause].

The golden rule — this is not the rule of gold, it's not do unto others, and when you've got all their money leave them to go on to do unto someone else. The golden rule is very simple. It's about treating people the way you want to be treated. But I don't have to tell you that. After all, you're Batesies. Whatever you do, wherever you go, do something real, make a real product, provide a real service, do something of value. Create something of beauty.

I'm very impressed with you Batesies. I'm especially impressed that so many of you made it here the morning after Midnight Madness. That was not a pretty sight at Dunkin' Donuts this morning.

I'm looking at a new generation of artists, dancers, scientists, writers, teachers, economists, historians, leaders, humanitarians, doers. I'm looking at you. And this morning, I'm feeling a little more hopeful about the world.

It's a great day to be a Bobcat [cheers].

Congratulations, Class of 2012. And congratulations to myself. Thank you.

Commencement 2012 Remarks
Gwen Ifill
Recipient of the Honorary Degree
Doctor of Letters

Yesterday I met my fellow honorands for the first time, and I decided that I instantly love them, but now I hate them both [laughter] with a deep an abiding passion that comes from being the third person to speak.

First of all, I want a show of hands. How many of you had more than two hours of sleep last night [few hands]. A few wooses. The rest of you are out! Or are you just saying that because your parents are watching?

How many of you climbed the rock [Mount David]? [All raise hands] That's great. OK, you lived up to everything they told me about you.

Thank you President Cable, thank you Mike Bonney, thank you incoming president Spencer. Thank you Class of 2012 [cheer]. And thank you for letting us be part of your number and pretend to be Batesies for at least day.

But when I discovered that I was going to the last of the three alphabetically, I was a little intimidated. I mostly though I was going to be overshadowed by De Niro, who turns out to be a teddy bear. But truth is, I never thought the long shadow would be cast by the molecular biologist [laughter and cheers].

OK, you're applauding too much now. I'm happy to be here. I'm happy to be at Bates because I love commencements. I love the feeling of the day. I love the weather you've arranged. I love the celebration of endings and beginnings.

I love the dancing of Baccalaureate on this stage. I've never seen a processional to Motown before. I love that so many of the songs you picked were from the '60s and '70s, which goes to show that we really rule the world [cheers].

I love that everyone today is in a good mood. The parents who are writing the last check. You start now. The students who've finished the last exams. The faculty who are just finished with you. I mean that: finished with you. But if I know one thing about commencements it is this: That I as the final speaker am the only thing standing between you and anther really good party.

I'm going to be brief. Oh yes, somebody said, that's a little rude [laughter]. Contain your enthusiasm. I am going to be brief, I promise. I'm going to give you some advice, and it's fairly simple piece of advice, and it is this:

Look up.

We're all looking down. We're all looking down as we walk, as we talk, as we text. How many of you are Tweeting about this right now. Look up! Pay attention to what's going on up here!

Not long ago I was walking down Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington on my way to a meeting at the White House, and I was texting the words "I'm on my way." I misjudged the curb and fell flat on my face in the street.

Now, I was fine but I was humiliated, because only in Washington can you be helped to your feet by a Secret Service officer and an assistant secretary of Commerce. I'm not making this up. But I would have been fine if I had only looked up. And the colleague I was texting to would have known I was on my way if he had only looked up.

Not long after that I was on my way to interview a presidential candidate in New Hampshire during the primaries, and my producer who was driving punched in the GPS the address of the hotel we were going to, and he studied it closely as we made our way. After awhile, I looked out the window and I saw the hotel we were headed to, right out the window, to the right. But the GPS was telling us to go to the left [laughter].

I had to say to my producer, "Look up. Look out." His first instinct by the way was to turn left anyway. But he thought his eyes were wrong, not the GPS.

It's so much simpler to look down. Your feet are down there, our screens are down there. But our fears are down there too. If you look up and away from the fear you will see the destinations you are headed toward, and you will see the opportunities. If you look up, you will see the chance to speak and to act on behalf of the discouraged and the diminished. If you look up you will see the expectation you set for yourself can only be expectations that we are setting for you today.

If you look up, you will realize you have a responsibility to build a set of steps for those following behind you to climb up. If you look up you will see that a Bates degree is the beginning of your life's education but not the end.

I was at a conference recently where a nice, really rich twentysomething tech startup guy, probably earning more than I ever will in my entire just in the time he was sitting at that conference, started talking about something he called disruptive innovation. Now, this sounded like a catch phrase to me, and I pretty much hate catch phrases.

But it got me to thinking. Isn't the best innovation by definition, disruptive? Doesn't it unsettle? Doesn't it challenge the settled order? Doesn't it carve a new path? Isn't it by definition difficult? Yes to all of the above. But is it worthwhile? Also yes. Does it require looking up, seeing what's over the horizon? Also yes.

Now there are some benefits to be had in looking down. If you look down today you will be able to fall in the footsteps of Bates graduates like Ed Muskie and Benjamin Mays and Peter Gomes and Bryant Gumbel. That ain't half bad.

But mostly we want we to unglue your eyes from the screens, to look around and see that the world won't get better without you. The news I cover won't happen without you. And the learning you have acquired here means nothing unless you apply it to a cause that does not end at your smartphone.

I couldn't wish more for you than all of that, and I won't. I want you to look up and see what the end is truly going to be. My best wishes to you all, congratulations to us all.

To our youngest son, Brett

We are so proud of the man you have become and all you have accomplished in your four years at Bates College. It has been a wild ride, a ride that has been filled with classroom knowledge, friends you will have for life and fantastic football memories, and adventures with the hope of more to come as you head out into the football coaching world. It has been a wonderful ride for us to watch and be a part of. May all your dreams come true and may you follow your passion for life as you head out into the world. Please remember that you're Dad, brother, and I are always with you with love and pride as you find your way.

We will be by your side forever enjoying it all.
Love Mom, Dad, and Kyle

Congratulations Jacqui!!

We're so proud of you and the person
you've become.

We love you to bits!!!

I guess what we're really trying to say is –

"Don't stop believing" " Let's get this party started" !!!!!

Love and hugs always Mum, Dad and Stu xoxoxoxo

Bonne Chance, Olivia!
You are one in a million.
May you life be filled with amazing adventures.

Dear Rachael,

We are so proud of you and are thrilled to celebrate your accomplishments at Bates! These four years have been a time of great personal growth, maturation and enrichment. You excelled passionately in politics (one of Bates' most difficult majors), focused on Middle East policy and conflict (a topic of great importance to our country and the world), and wrote a challenging thesis on presidential and congressional relations during wartime. The summers were spent at Penn and NYU focusing on your other great passion, cinema. You also engaged the broader college community through participation on the debate council, equestrian club, and as a DJ at the radio station. Just as importantly, you made many new friends and shared wonderful experiences with them. Bates has made you a more engaged, independent and creative thinker, and the school will always have a special place in your life and ours. We love you tons. Dooooooooooohhhhhhhhhhhhh!

Maggie!
We Love You!

"I cannot cause light; the most I can do is try to put myself in the path of its beam. It is possible, in deep space, to sail on solar wind. Light, be it particle or wave, has force: you can rig a giant sail and go. The secret of seeing is to sail on solar wind. Hone and spread your spirit till you yourself are a sail, whetted, translucent, broadside to the merest puff."

Dear Helen,

Maybe you're not the first going to a college in the family per se

You definitely is the first to an English-speaking one

Maybe to you, success is expected from day one

It doesn't mean any step is easy along the way

There are so many obstacles for you to overcome

There are plenty prejudices for you to face

There are countless useful and useless lessons for you to learn

Amazingly, you did it, at Bates

You did it with courage, braveness and a smile on your face

The same qualities make you a very special girl

To carry you on to a beautiful life

Bravo, Sweet Beibei

We're beaming ear-to-ear for you!

Love and proud of you,

Dad and Mom

Congratulations, Nathaniel!

Seek the joy of being alive! We are very proud of you!

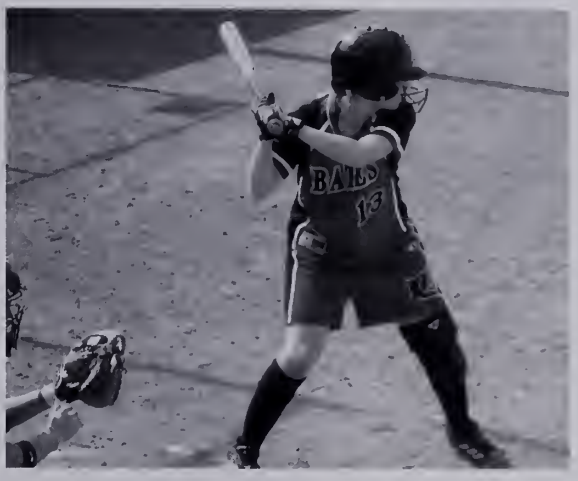
Congratulations Lauren



We are so proud of all your accomplishments at Bates. Thanks for all the memories. Pursue your dreams and we look forward to the next chapter in your life.

Love,
Mom, Dad, Mark, Snickers, and Tootsie

At every turn these past four years, you've displayed such fierce determination to greet and master every challenge that came your way. The dedication you've shown in making the most of your education is impressive, but the person you've become along your journey is even more remarkable! We know you'll miss Bates but are confident that you've gained the skills and insights necessary to look forward to this next stage in your life with joy and anticipation! The entire family is so proud of you!!!

We love you!!!

Elana:

We have watched you mature, in stature and independence,

To become capable, diligent, gregarious, full of reverence.

And though tear producing for us at times, that you are now on your own,

It is also a constant source of joy, to see what you have sown.

As you go forth, we wish for you to find your own passions & joys

And the means to help create a better world, that you will hone.

CONGRATULATIONS
Bates Class of 2012

REANN

She walks with assurance,
She talks with confidence,
She works with zeal,
She is an independent woman.

She plays with pride,
She listens with patience,
She lives with determination,
She is an independent woman.

She loves with heart,
She smiles with grace,
She explores with daring.
She is an independent woman.

She is our sunshine,
She is our heart,
She is our independent woman Reann.
